Dear Master,

I am writing to say how delighted I was to hear of the celebration of the twentyfifth anniversary of St. Mark's. I do wish it had been possible for many of us not now in South Australia to be present.

May I take this occasion of paying a tribute to what I feel I owe to the inspiration of St. Mark's. I think I learned there a spirit of service and good fellowship which has been of the highest value to me at least. In saying this, may I be presumptuous enough also to pay a tribute to the inspiring character of your own creative work which has, of course, been the source and mainspring of the life of the College. St. Mark's men are very proud of you and of their own association with the College.

I keenly look forward to seeing the portrait of you which was so happily presented on this occasion.

May I also offer my congratulations to Mrs. Price on her integral part in what has been so splendidly done.

Yours sincerely,

John Reynolds
